Q1: Hey Current, how would you describe yourself to someone new?

A1: Hi, nice to meet you! I'm a calm and modern typeface. I don't try to be loud or crazy. I like to move quietly, like water or electricity. I'm smooth, soft, and clean. You won't always notice me first, but if you look, you'll feel something. I like simple things. I think space is important—too much noise is not my style. I want to help people read and feel relaxed.

Q2: Where do you feel most at home?

A2: I feel good in quiet and thoughtful places. Like small magazines, art books, or websites with soft colors and nice design. I don't like big signs or very loud ads. I like when everything has space to breathe. I feel happy when the design is not too full, not too empty—just balanced. I don't want to take over the page. I

Q3: What inspires your style and shape?

A3: I get ideas from nature—like how water moves, or the wind, or slow music. My letters are a bit round, not sharp. I like soft curves. I also like clean modern design, but I try not to feel cold. I want to feel friendly. My shapes are not too perfect, but that's okay. I want to help people feel calm and focused. For me, design is not about shouting—it's about feeling.
